(HOUSTON) December 23, 2025 — Earlier today, Houston SPCA Animal Cruelty Investigators rescued 26 animals living in deplorable conditions inside a Baytown home including 17 dogs, six puppies and three cats.

Officials from the Houston SPCA discovered urine-soaked couches, piles of debris and floors covered with feces. Several animals were found emaciated and living outdoors without access to food or water.

The animals were surrendered to the Houston SPCA by the owner and transported to the rescue and protection organization, where they are now undergoing medical evaluation and receiving much-needed support and care. The case is still under investigation.

Anyone who suspects animal cruelty or neglect is encouraged to report it by calling 713-869-SPCA (7722) or www.HoustonSPCA.org where photos or video can be uploaded.
